AUTOMOBILE SMASH AT YORK BEACH

A big touring automobile owned by H. W. Jackson of Baltimore, a summer resident of York Harbor, was wrecked and two young ladies riding with the driver were thrown out and one badly bruised and cut about the face and neck.

The machine, a powerful car, was being driven by Captain Morris, the chauffeur, who, it is said, had the machine without the permission of the owner. He had with him two young ladies who refused to give their names, and they were driving along the York Cliff road when, in turning a sharp corner, the automobile driver, in trying to avoid a collision with a horse and carriage, ran into a stone wall. The two young ladies were thrown from the machine and one was cut about the face and head, but is not seriously injured. The driver was uninjured. The machine, however, was badly wrecked, and it will cost a large sum to repair it.

BABY REUNITES HACKETTS

Their Five-Year-Old Daughter Dispersed Divorce Clouds

New York, Aug. 13.—It is to 5 year old Elsie Hackett, the pretty little daughter of the actor-manager James K. Hackett, and his beautiful actress-wife, Mary Manning, that all thoughts of an impending divorce have been abandoned and a reconciliation brought about.

Elsie is now in Europe with her mother, in whose charge she has remained ever since the theatrical world was shocked, more than a year ago, by the news of the separation of the Hacketts, for their marriage was always regarded as purely a love match.

Both Mr. Hackett and his wife are devoted to their little girl. When the separation came and her mother took her away and could give no answers to her questions about her father and why he didn't come home any more the child fretted so that it was feared she would be seriously ill.

Then Miss Manning brought suit for divorce, and it was indirectly the baby's influence that caused James K. Hackett to make a decision that put a stop to those proceedings. He announced, through his lawyer, that he would fight to the last any effort by his wife to secure her freedom unless she agreed to give him entire charge of the baby. If Elsie was sent to him to live with him all the time, he would not oppose Mrs. Hackett's action.

These terms the mother would not listen to, and after long deliberation with her lawyers it was agreed to banish all thoughts of a divorce.

AMERICAN BARN DANCE

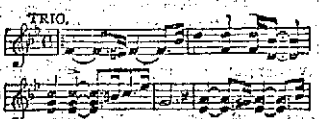

The American barn dance, now one of the leading novelties of the London ball rooms, has been introduced in this country. Several society women started the community with "R. Henry's Barn Dance," to which they danced the figures of the Virginia reel and the hoo-down. Since then the band and orchestras have taken up the craze.

The method in which the dance is interpreted is that of six couples who swing their partners to a central point, then wait back to an angle formed by the first retreating couple, who, in turn, exchange partners. The following strains indicate the music to which this is done:

The dance proper occupies increased interest. It is wrought to a climax in which the couples sing as they dance. For this purpose a set of words called "Down at the Huskin' Bee" are invoked. The following bars of Mr. Henry's barn dance are utilized:

To this melody the text runs as follows:

"Come along and let's make merry,
down at the huskin' bee,
Apple-jack and good blackberry, we'll have a jubilee," etc.

ADVENTIST CAMPMEETING

Union Bay, Aug. 13.—The forty-sixth annual campmeeting of the Advent Christian Association opened Wednesday under the most auspicious circumstances.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission was held in the tabernacle on Tuesday evening in the forenoon.

The president, Mrs. Sarah K. Taylor, presided, and it was one of the most successful meetings that the society has ever held. The reports were interesting, and showed an increase in work and membership. There were 17 members present to cast their ballots. The forenoon was devoted to the reports of the officers and committees. The secretary reported twenty-one new societies, thirteen new societies, five young women, and the junior mission societies, and that the subscription list was the official organ of the woman's

Mr. Frost lives with his son, James Frost, Jr., about two and one-half miles from Milford on the Brookline road, where he has resided for about five years.

Mr. Frost is fast becoming blind. This affliction is not due to his great age, but came on gradually in the form of cataracts. He takes the affliction as a matter of fact, and is ready with a joke as the jolliest man in the world.

He does not allow the matter of eyesight to interfere with his work and celebrated his advent into his 100th year by lackling a woodpile and the way he made the saw hum is a caution.

Mr. Frost was born in Lubec, Me. and was brought up on a farm. At the age of fourteen years he went aboard a ship, and the most of his life has been spent on the water.

He followed the sea for over seventy-five years, and made eight voyages to the West Indies, numberless trips to South America, and has been across the big pond several times.

He has used tobacco for over eighty years and still speaks his pipe every time a day. He says he never bothered with a doctor, but had a surgeon once set his leg which was broken, but has no use for medicine.

Mr. Frost was married twice, and is the father of nine children, three of whom are living. James Frost, Jr., is the oldest child, sixty-eight years old.

Mr. Frost saw five years service on the southern coast during the war on a revenue boat, and has followed the sea up to a few years ago. He is a wonderfully preserved man in mind and body for his age.

NINETY-NINE YEARS OLD

New Hampshire Man Sawed Wood on His Birthday

Milford, Aug. 13.—Entering upon his 100th year on Thursday, James Frost, Sr., is a remarkable man in many ways. Remorseless time has to a certain extent, showed its inroads in the personality of Mr. Frost, but he carries his ninety-nine years of life in a manner few men can hope to achieve.

SEND THEM HERE Portsmouth and the Isles of Shoals Would Do Them Good

Manchester, Aug. 13.—Arrangements are being made by L. Ashton Thorp of this city, clerk of the New Hampshire Lumbermen's Association, for an outing of the members which will be held about Sept. 1.

The plan is to have the excursion either to the Isles of Shoals or to New York and up the Hudson. The place of the outing will depend upon the preference expressed by a majority of the members of the association.

The association has a large and influential membership which includes prominent lumbermen not only in New Hampshire but various parts of New England. The program for the outing will be prepared as soon as the place is decided upon.

MUSGROVE OR SCOTT?

Which One Will Take the Census in New Hampshire?

Washington, Aug. 12.—The appointment of more than 300 census supervisors will be made public next Saturday or Monday by President Taft.

Assistant Secretary McLaughlin of the department of commerce and labor and census director Durand will go to Beverly in a few days. It is understood, to confer with the president about the appointments.

Throughout most of the country there will be a supervisor for each congressional district, but in large cities one supervisor will be appointed regardless of the number of congressional districts.

THREE HUNDRED IN RIOT

Strike of Dock Laborers, Nearly All Foreigners, Reaches Crisis When Shooting Is Begun—Railroad Had Granted Demands, but Withdrawn
Them on Account of Mob Violence—
Martial Law Prevails

Fort Williams, Ont., Aug. 13.—Fort Williams is under martial law. A thousand dock laborers, principally Greeks, Hungarians and Italians, who have been on a strike for a week, enraged by the arrival of special Canadian Pacific police from Winnipeg, were incited to riot and 300 of them engaged in a pitched battle with the police around the Canadian Pacific freight sheds. Two dozen men were wounded, three at least fatally, including Chief Bell of the company's local force, and two Greeks.

The Ninety-Sixth regiment of militia was called out after Mayor Pelletier had read the riot act.

The strikers have twenty-five railway constables penned up in the Canadian Pacific railroad bank house. Soldiers are guarding the district under command of Colonel Steele, who was here at the time of the riot. He is head of the Canadian permanent forces in western Canada, resident in Winnipeg.

The permanent force in Winnipeg will arrive by special train today. The city police department is absolutely unable to cope with the situation. It was impossible to control either the imported Canadian Pacific constables or the dock strikers. The strikers are intensely aroused and they shoot in any direction, regardless of who is in the way. Friends and foes look alike.

Whether the first shot was fired by the strikers or the Canadian Pacific constables is not positively known, but it is believed it was fired by one of the imported constables, thirty of whom arrived from Winnipeg and were sworn in as specials. It is evident that the constables disregarded orders of their chief. After being sworn in the men were taken through the yards to the Canadian Pacific railway boarding house. In a twinkling firearms of every description were flashed by the strikers. There were shotguns, rifles and scores of revolvers.

At the city hall the mayor was doing what he could to arrange a settlement. Canadian Pacific railway officials had agreed to grant the demands of the men and put them to work under an increased scale. The agreement had just been approved when a report was telephoned that rioting was in progress. The railway officials promptly notified the mayor that they would now fight the strike out to the bitter end. No peace will be considered until they are done with the Greeks.

The shot which terminated all efforts to effect a settlement marked the inception of a riot which has not yet been terminated. Volleys and shots followed each other in quick succession. The strikers massed and drove the police back into the bank house, where they are now undergoing a siege.

The police were backing arguments for peace with bullets, fired from revolvers of yells and through windows from positions which the strikers were unable to locate. All the windows in the bank house and of the Canadian Pacific railway yard buildings were smashed with bullets. The strikers, in response to the wranglings of Chief Dodds, slowly retreated back to McTavish street, but further they refused to budge and kept up an intermittent fire under the very eyes of the police officials.

UNHAPPY YOUNG SHAH

Possibility of Abdication Being Considered by Persian Government

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—A dispatch from Tehran says that the young Shah is discontent at the prospect of abdication from his parents.

According to reports current in Tehran, the youthful ruler recently made an attempt at flight, and when he was frustrated he tried to commit suicide.

The government is considering the possibility of his abdication in favor of some other else.

Educator Killed by Train

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 13.—Professor Wilhelm Bernhard of Washington, an educator and author, was struck and killed by a train on the Rutland railroad here. Bernhard, who was spending the summer here, was 60 years of age and for many years was director of Gorman in the Washington high schools.

Navy Department Clerk Missing

Washington, Aug. 13.—Police are searching for Herbert B. Fleischner, a clerk in the navy department, and son of the state librarian of Massachusetts, who mysteriously disappeared from his home, leaving a message which seemed to indicate his intention to end his life.

MINISTER WU RECALLED

Is Noted as One of Most Popular Diplomats in Washington

Washington, Aug. 13.—Announcement of the recall of Minister Wu came in a cablegram to the Chinese legation, which added that Chang Yin Tang had been named as his successor.

The recall surprised government circles here. Wu has been the accredited representative of China in the American continent since March, 1908, and during that time has done much toward adding to the reputation he established among the people generally during his first term as minister to America in 1897-1902.

His sympathies with the United States during the Boxer trouble led to his first recall. It was reported then that he was to be beheaded, but this government promptly intimated that such a course would be offensive to the United States.

HARD BATTLE WITH FIRE

Aid of Soldiers Invoked to Save Homes From Destruction

Hiddeford, Me., Aug. 13.—Scores of houses along the Pool woods were in danger by a fire which swept over 500 acres of timberland, most of it covered with a valuable pine growth. Hundreds of volunteers from this city and from the summer colonies assisted the fire department and the militiamen of Company G of the National Guard, who were brought into service by a riot call sounded on the fire alarm.

They worked desperately and succeeded in saving the homes of farmers and summer residents along the road, setting back fires and carrying buckets of water to the roofs of dwellings which were threatened constantly by showers of sparks.

The fire started in the woods in the Newtown district, probably from a match dropped by a berry-picker.

WAR CLOUDS ARE FAST GATHERING

Turkey Seems Bent Upon Clash of Arms With Greece

London, Aug. 13.—The Daily Telegraph's Constantinople correspondent says it is difficult to discover the influence under which the Turkish government is acting, but that in military quarters the talk is wholly of war with Greece. It is asserted that the ministers of war and marine insist that war is the only possible solution of the difficulty.

"War is Unavoidable"
Berlin, Aug. 13.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Tagblatt says that Turkey's answer to the Greek note will have the character of an ultimatum. He adds that the opinion now is that war between Turkey and Greece is unavoidable and that an outbreak is near at hand. The forts around Saloniki, the correspondent declares, are ready for war.

Greek Note Unsatisfactory
Constantinople, Aug. 13.—The porte has decided to address a more energetic note to Greece, in which it will be stated that Greece's reply to the Turkish note concerning Crete is unsatisfactory.

MILLION DOLLAR GAS PLANT

It Will Supply Light For Eastern Massachusetts Towns

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 13.—An outlay of $1,000,000 will be made in the construction of a gas plant to supply the towns of Braintree, Rockland, Abington, Whitman and Weymouth, and eventually Hingham, Randolph, Hallowell, Cohasset and Nantasket Beach. The plant is to be located on the water front at East Braintree and it is planned to lay 100 miles of pipe to furnish gas to the various towns.

Contracts for the construction of the plant are expected to be placed within the next ten days and the state gas commission will hold a hearing on Sept. 8 on the petition for the capital cost of the company.

A TOUGH YOUNGSTER

Unharmful After Auto Weighing Nearly Two Tons Runs Over Him

Glen Falls, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Edward Leclair, 8 years old, picked himself out of the dust apparently unharmful and walked to a doctor's office after a touring car weighing nearly 4000 pounds had passed over his body. An examination revealed no injuries and the chauffeur, who had been arrested, was released.

Lustania Betters Her Record

New York, Aug. 13.—The Cunard liner Lusitania crossed by the long course in 4 days, 16 hours and 40 minutes, nearly three hours better than her best previous performance. Her average speed was 25.65 knots. The Lusitania is still 45 minutes behind the best time made by the Mauretania.

Court Decides That Public Peace and Safety Would Be Endangered by Setting Him at Large—Delusions Regarding Practices of White and His Associates Still Cherished—Sympathy For the Prisoner's Mother

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Harry K. Thaw's latest attempt to gain his liberty met with complete and disheartening defeat when Supreme Court Justice Mills dismissed the writ of habeas corpus and declared that "the release of the petitioner would be dangerous to the public peace and safety." The signing of an order sending Thaw back to Matteawan is all that remains to complete the failure of his latest appeal to the courts.

There is no crumb of comfort for Thaw in the 7000 word opinion handed down by Mills. All the contentions of his old adversary, District Attorney Jerome, are supported, and it is declared that Thaw is still insane, still suffering from persistent delusions, and as much a paranoiac as on the night he shot Stanford White.

The order for Thaw's commitment will be presented to Mills today by Deputy Attorney General Prentiss, and Attorney Morschauer will then have a chance to oppose it or strive for a modification. Such action, however, will, it is believed, be purely formal in view of the decisive nature of the opinion handed down Thursday.

Thaw, waiting in the White Plains jail at the rear of the courthouse where the decision was filed, received the news with an outward calmness. O'Brien, a SNK fallout, 55 h which appeared, however, more forced than real. The members of his family and his attorney seemed stunned by the thoroughness of their defeat.

Thaw declined to give out an extended statement, contenting himself with the assertion that he was not disheartened and would at once continue his fight for liberty. "My next effort will be centered upon the court of appeals, through which I expect to secure a hearing before a jury in my effort to have my commitment to Matteawan set aside."

The case before the court of appeals, to which Thaw referred, is one which has been under consideration for some time. It came before Mills last October, when Thaw applied for an order setting aside his commitment on the ground that the court which committed him was without power to issue such an order, inasmuch as Thaw at the time was not on trial on a question of sanity. At the same time he asked to have the question of his mental condition submitted to a jury.

When Mills promptly denied this application the case was carried to the appellate division, which sustained Mills. Thaw's attorney has already made a second appeal, and it is upon this appeal that Thaw says his effort will now be centered.

In his opinion Justice Mills reaches three formal conclusions: That Thaw was insane when he killed White; that he has not yet recovered; and that public peace and safety would be endangered by setting him at large. He upholds District Attorney Jerome's arguments that Thaw still cherishes delusions regarding the practices of Stanford White and his associates. He characterizes Evelyn Thaw's account of the Madison Square tower room and similar stories about White told at the sanity hearing as "grossly improbable, evidently to any normal mind grossly exaggerated." He asserts his belief in the testimony of Susan Merrill regarding Thaw's alleged pervert practices, and points out the contrast between Thaw's chivalrous attitude as a protector of young American womanhood and his private life.

Justice Mills expressed deep sympathy for the prisoner's mother, and her expiation of the "horrors of Matteawan" on the stand evidently prompted his recommendation that Thaw be allowed greater privileges at that institution. At the same time he gently chided Mrs. Thaw for her censure of Jerome, of whom he said: "I find no evidence of heartlessness or undue zeal on his part."

Hobbs' Terror Down and Out

Providence, Aug. 13.—Having a record of men sent to the state workhouse for vagrancy hardly surpassed by any member of the police department, Herbert W. Brown, a former policeman, 31 and out of work, pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy and was given a year's sentence.

Governor Hughes' Great Stunt

AGITATION OVER WAGE QUESTION

New Bedford Textile Workers
Want Cutdown Restored

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 13.—The wage question will come to a head next week, when special meetings of the weavers, spinners, carders and loomfixers will be held for the purpose of formally requesting the cotton manufacturers to restore a cutdown of 10 percent which was made two years ago.

The manufacturers are of the opinion that they can not afford to advance wages at this time, but the union officials insist that the mill-owners are able to do so.

The developments are being closely watched by Rhode Island manufacturers, whose 25,000 employees are paid according to the New Bedford wage list. The cloth mills of New Bedford employ 20,000 operatives.

HIS STORIES DON'T AGREE

Police Have Man Whom They Suspect of Killing Anna Schumacher

Rochester, Aug. 13.—Circumstances are somewhat against Edward E. Ewaldt, a furrier and a former employee of Holy Sepulcher cemetery, who was arrested at his brother's home in North Rose and brought here last night, suspected of being the murderer of Anna Schumacher.

Ewaldt has scratches on his face and it is said that he has told contradictory stories about his movements. He left his job near the cemetery Saturday afternoon and he maintains that he went at once to his brother's home. His brother corroborates this, but the police officers say they have witnesses who will testify to the contrary. It is also charged that Ewaldt was in the habit of meeting women whom he did not know and that his reputation is not good.

WILL BE DECIDING FACTOR

General Grant's Opinion of Airships in Warfare of the Future

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—Thursday's session of the convention of the Army of the Philippines was marked by a speech delivered by Major General Grant, commander of the department of the lakes, who said:

"I candidly believe that airships will be the deciding factor in future warfare. The war department is watching with intense interest the development of the aeroplane. To my mind, these air craft will play the important part in war which was to come."

Fire of Peculiar Origin

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 13.—Fire broke out in a storehouse of the Viscolco company and three one-story houses of the company were destroyed with their contents. The loss is $45,000. A large auto-truck was the direct cause of the fire. A spark from the engine of the machine shot through a door of one of the storehouses and alighted on inflammable materials.

Worried Over Wife's Sickness

Winchendon, Mass., Aug. 13.—After kissing his wife of but six months as she lay in her sick-bed of many weeks, Philip Grenier, aged 25, went upstairs and committed suicide by drinking poison. He was strong and an able worker, but fretted over his wife's condition so much as to lead up to his act.

NOTE BROKER IS ARRESTED

Larceny of $10,000 Charged Against Him

MIXED UP IN PERSCH CASE

Two Checks Found to Have Been Drawn in His Favor by Young Man

Previously Placed Under Arrest and Whose Bail Is Fixed at $50,000 Pending Hearing in Regard to Alleged Swindling in Stocks

New York, Aug. 13.—There was a new arrest in the circle of complexities surrounding young Donald Persch, the note broker who is charged with the larceny of $110,000 worth of copper stocks put up as collateral with the Windsor Trust company to secure a loan of $50,000 made to M. M. Joyce, a broker for P. A. Hahnke.

W. L. Clark, another note broker, but representing Joyce, who is the complainant against Persch, was arrested in the district attorney's office, charged with the larceny of $10,000, said to be part profits from the curb sales of the stock which Joyce supposed was safe in the vaults of the Windsor Trust company until he was astonished to buy part of the shares back in the open market. Clark was released on $12,000 bail.

His arrest is based on two checks drawn in his favor by Persch, one for $488 and the other for $10,000. The checks were drawn a few days after the loan had been closed.

Earlier in the day Persch, freed on a writ of habeas corpus, was promptly re-arrested, charged this time with the specific larceny of $44,000, which the district attorney's office sets forth was his share of the profits from the alleged swindle. Bail this time was fixed at $50,000, which Persch failed to secure.

Persch's counsel was indignant at his re-arrest. "This is the most remarkable case I have ever heard of," he said. "I intend to open up the flood gates and will see several men are swept away if I find it necessary to save this boy. He has been the tool for men higher up. He knows nothing of the transaction. If these accusations are not withdrawn I will give the district attorney evidence that will create a sensation in the financial world."

This statement agrees with the belief of Mr. Nutt of the district attorney's office, who has said plainly that he expects to uncover a widespread conspiracy to sell hypothesized stocks here and in other cities. Nutt, however, seems to think the scheme was only a way to make easy money, whereas friends of Hahnke still persist that there has been a systematic attempt organized by a "master mind" to ruin him.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT

Strike of Ten Thousand Chicago Street Car Men Will Be Averted

Chicago, Aug. 13.—The crucial point in the wage dispute between the officials of the street railway lines of Chicago and their 10,000 employees has passed. With the offer of a maximum scale of 30 cents an hour to be paid by Aug. 1, 1911, which was made by President Roach of the North and West lines, and the prompt acceptance of the same by President Quinn of the North and West Side Street Car Men's union, all possibility of a strike appears to be over.

President Mitten of the South Side lines has allowed it to be understood that he would follow Roach in any agreement he might make with the union men.

UMPIRE HURST DROPPED

Result of Difficulty With Member of Philadelphia Americans

Washington, Aug. 13.—President Johnson of the American league announced that Umpire Hurst, who, during a recent game in Philadelphia, had a difficulty with Eddie Collins of the Athletics, would be dropped from the league.

Mike Thompson, the former Georgetown baseball and football star, will succeed Hurst. Thompson has been engaged at $500 a month and for a time will work with Sheridan.

HERMIT'S SNUG FORTUNE

Discovered After He Had Long Been Living on Charity of Others

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—By actual count it was found that Peter Leibauch, an aged German hermit who was arrested for his queer actions, had hoarded in his shanty home in small change $18,188, not including 40 bags of uncounted coins or bank deposits in eight savings institutions. It is thought that before the search is ended Leibauch's fortune will total over $50,000.

For years Leibauch has posed as a destitute charity upon the bounty of citizens of the North Side. He eked out a miserable existence selling herbs and mint to saloon keepers, who in turn partly fed him. Two years ago August Leibauch, a brother, committed suicide in the hermit's home. For years the brothers lived together in the shanty. It is said they chose their solitary existence after they had been refused the hand of twin daughters of a wealthy resident of Millvale.

GUESTS GET A SCARE

Smoke Drives Them Out of a Boston Hotel in Night Clothes

Boston, Aug. 13.—Guests of the United States hotel rushed to the office early today clad in their night garments and carrying their clothing and hand baggage when they were alarmed by the spread of smoke through the building from a fire which started in the walls of the dining room.

The blaze was on the first floor and caused about $500 worth of damage before it was extinguished. It is supposed that defective wiring was the cause.

Every room was filled with smoke and the guests made a hurried exit, returning to their rooms when they learned that the fire was under control.

TESTIMONY CLOSED IN SUTTON CASE

Gunshot Expert Says Lieutenant Did Not Kill Himself

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 13.—After an investigation lasting more than three weeks, the naval court of inquiry into the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., here on Oct. 13, 1907, finished the taking of testimony.

In the closing hours Dr. A. M. Schaffer, called as expert in gunshot wounds, was cross-examined. Hypothetical and technical questions figured largely in his examination by counsel for Lieutenant Adams; and although Adams was again called upon to illustrate the movements of Sutton as he lay prostrate on the ground on the fatal night, Schaffer's conclusion was that, under the conditions given, Sutton could not have shot himself.

PROSECUTION IN ORDER

"Grafting" at the Expense of Immigrants Will Be Wiped Out

Washington, Aug. 13.—A vigorous investigation, instituted to suppress the practices of alleged charitable organizations in preying upon ignorant immigrants at Ellis Island, may result in a series of prosecutions by the department of commerce and labor.

The scope of the department's action to wipe out this form of "grafting" will be determined when the report of Commissioner Williams at Ellis Island is reviewed. The latter's investigation has covered a wide range.

BOLIVIA'S NEW PRESIDENT

Inducted into Office Without Anticipated Disorders Occurring

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 13.—Elidoro Villazon was inducted into the office of president of Bolivia in succession to Ismael Montes.

Owing to the fact that Villazon is believed to favor Argentina's awards against Bolivia in the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Peru, it was expected that disorders would ensue when he assumed the presidency, but there has been no trouble.

THE FORT LANDS

The United States government is to spend more than a million dollars during this fiscal year on improvements at the forts on the New England coast, all the way from Narragansett bay to the mouth of the Kennebec river. Practically a third of the sum will be expended on the defenses of Portland. Why is not a similar outlay to be made on the defenses of Portsmouth?

The United States stands ready to spend a large sum of money, running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, for enlargement of the fort lands, and additions to the building property at the forts on the New Hampshire shore at the entrance to Portsmouth harbor. That money is needed for the protection of the navy yard, which is a matter of vital importance to the people of this country, as the yard with the largest dry dock in case of war.

The people of Portsmouth and neighboring towns, and especially the local business men's association, should tackle the problem of the delay which the United States is encountering in acquiring land at those forts. There should be no delay in this, both on account of the business importance of the work to be done, and because of its importance to the United States.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Another Reform at Washington
 It is not impossible that when the record of the Taft administration comes to be written it will be seen that one of its principal achievements has been the increase of departmental efficiency. Governor Hughes has said that much might be done in the direction of political reform without the passage of any additional laws if officeholders were more deeply concerned about the honest and effective administration of such laws as are already in existence; and President Taft was apparently come to the conclusion—very likely as a result of his long service at the head of the war department—that by keeping government employees to a stricter accountability a far-reaching improvement may be brought about.—Providence Journal.

Setting Cuba an Example

How many American cities are in a position to scoff at Cuba for running into debt the minute Uncle Sam removed his restraining hands?

New York is staggering under a per capita debt that would spell bankruptcy to any private business enterprise. Boston today faces another increase of tax rate unless about $20,000,000 of new taxable property can be found.

Nine cities out of ten fix the same limit to their expenditures that the Cubans are doing—that is, they spend all they can get and they borrow all they dare.—Boston Post.

Who Owns This Country?

King Edward and his consort recently visited Liverpool. In response to an address of welcome the king said, in part: "I thank you, on behalf of the queen and myself, for your LOYAL and DUTIFUL address of welcome * * *. I rejoice to know that the people of Liverpool have done their part in the work of providing for the defense of my country."

We can understand how the appeal of patriotism in a free country may bring even the unbeliever in the efficacy of "peace safeguards" to countenance them, but it would rankle just a little in the bosom of a bred in the bone American to be told that in his efforts for the up building of an army he was providing for the defense of some king's country and that in his address of welcome to the chief magistrate of the nation he was giving evidence of his LOYAL AND DUTIFUL nature.—Woman's National Daily.

An Ohio Democrat Talks

More and more the Democrats of Ohio are turning to Governor Judson Harmon as the hope of their party in the next presidential campaign. They have confidence that he will be nominated if he can go into the national convention in 1912 with such prestige at home as he possesses today. If he can hold his present office he can win the leadership of the Democratic party in the country.

That is the belief of Ohio Democrats who are active in politics, and it is a sound theory. If Judson Harmon could be reelected, in President Taft's own state, in 1910 his position in his party would be much more impressive than that of Governor Johnson of Minnesota or any other Democrat. Harmon would suggest victory almost as Bryan spells defeat. And the very sound of the Ohioan's name would be attractive to a party torn by internal strife and eager for unity and harmonious action.

But all this hinges upon a tremendous contingency. It is all based upon the reelection of the governor next year, and that is a very dubious chance. No Democrat has been elected governor of Ohio for a second term, at the expiration of his first two years of service since the Republican party was organized and became known in Buckeye politics.—Cleveland Leader.

TWO PRETTY STARS

The planets Venus and Jupiter are very close together this week and present a pretty spectacle in the evening twilight sky. They are low in the west and set shortly after eight o'clock.

Venus is the brighter star. It is getting higher every night, whereas Jupiter is sinking lower and will soon be lost in the rays of the sun. The planets are so low that they cannot be seen at all in places where a high hill or tall clump of trees obstructs the view of the western horizon.

Mars is a very conspicuous object in the eastern sky this month. It can be seen well about ten o'clock and is easily distinguished by its ruddy light.

CATARRH THE CAUSE OF CONSUMPTION

At least one-half of the consumption in the world can be traced to catarrh.

Here are some symptoms of catarrh: if you have any of them get rid of them while there is yet time. Is your throat raw? Do you sneeze often? Is your breath foul? Are your eyes watery? Do you take cold easily? Is your nose stopped up? Do you have to spit often? Do cramps form in your nose? Are you worse in damp weather? Do you blow your nose a great deal?

Are you losing your sense of smell? Does your mouth taste bad morning? Do you have a dull feeling in your head? Do you have to clear your throat on rising? Is there a tickling sensation in your throat? Do you have a discharge from the nose? Does mucous drop in back of throat?

A TIMELY TOPIC

BY JOHN KIRBY
 Pres. National Assoc. Manufacturers

Two Kinds of Labor Unions.

THAT Labor unions, such as I have condemned and always shall condemn, are destructive and injurious to the cause of labor is clearly shown by the history they have made and are making, and being so, they have no right to exist to menace and terrorize our people, nor should they receive sympathy and encouragement from those who pose as philanthropists and loyal American citizens.

I hold, and I always have maintained, that whenever labor unions organize and conduct their affairs on legitimate business principles, with due regard for the rights of those who differ with them and for the rights and interests of the great public who, after all, must bear the brunt of the burden when there is any, so that when a demand is made on an employer he has no consequences to fear other than the loss of his men and the re-manning of his plant with, possibly, inexperienced or less efficient men, there will be no necessity for outside interference or labor wars. The use of injunction and martial law in case of labor disputes will disappear. American industry will then move along as it should, and will astonish the civilized world.

The issue is plain. It is a struggle between law and lawlessness. It is an issue which has now reached its culmination in this country. Today the American people—each man, woman and child of whom is directly interested in our common welfare—must face the question, whether rampant and criminal unionism, or law and order and common justice, shall prevail.

PEOPLES' OPINIONS

Keep the Old Name

Editor Herald:—

I want to protest against changing our good old Christian Shore into something so commonplace, so utterly tame, stale and banal as "Maplewood" or "North Shore."

In Rev. Alfred Gooding's recent article on the names of Portsmouth streets he laments the loss of some of our early historical names.

It is an unfortunate Americanism to want to substitute for good, old, simple, picturesque names a set of new-fangled cognomens suggestive of a sort of superficial elegance and ultra-refinement which stumbles over itself and defeats its own end.

What would the defenders of "Maplewood" say to the names of some of the London streets and districts? Cheapside, Rotten Row, Soho, Bird Cage Walk, Pall Mall? London also has a Christian street and is not ashamed of it.

The strong sulphurous names of some of the Paris streets would probably frighten the advocate of "Maplewood," so I will forbear to translate.

Paris also has streets named for saints, angels and virtues. She has again her Street of the Adventurous, her Place of the Carousal and her Heavenly Fields.

Let us at least have our Christian Shore. Please, dear kind Mr. Editor, defend us from "Maplewood."

S. W. Hovey.

Trip of Rifle Team to Camp Perry

Not a Junket for Team Members

The recent articles published about the New Hampshire State Rifle Team going to Camp Perry on a junket are rather misleading to the general public. The State Rifle Team is composed of twelve shooting members, three alternates, a team captain, team coach, and team spotter, eighteen in all, and these eighteen men are on duty from the time the team reaches the range until the return from the range.

As soon as the range is reached, arrangements are made for practice on the ranges used in the national matches and the team is ordered out for practice. They put in the whole day at it on the different ranges, then have supper and turn in at 9.00 p. m. The next morning, turn out at 6.00 a. m., have breakfast, and report on the firing line at 7.30 a. m. for another day of practice.

Then comes the match which takes three and sometimes four days, according to the number of teams entered. As soon as the match is over, the team starts for home and arrives there the following day.

If some of the people who call this trip a junket would only come out on the 1000 yard range some day with the glass reading 128 degrees in the sun, a mirage running and the wind blowing 15 to 20 miles per hour and then "dope" out conditions so as to make 40 out of a possible 50 at this range, I think they will agree that it is hard work and not a pleasure trip for the men who have to do this every day while they are on the range.

The state pays enlisted men and officers the pay of their grade and subsistence while on a rifle shoot but practically every man on the team loses money on a trip of this kind, because he can make more money in civil life. Men "play the game" in the shooting line because they like it and not because it pays them for it does not.

To make a good shot it takes practice, practice and then more practice, combined with ability to "dope" conditions, and a general knowledge of the rifle, ammunition, etc. and some good man for a coach until you get started right.

A Member of the New Hampshire State Rifle Team 1907.

Christian Shore No More

Editor Herald:—

The communication of J. H. S. on the changing of the name of Christian Shore is right to the point. Some of the residents are opposed to such a move and say that the city government should not meddle with historic names.

I take a different view of this matter and say that to keep up with the times the change should be made.

The past city officials made changes when necessary when Sagamore road was changed to Sagamore avenue, Warren street to Porter street, Creek street to Bartlett street, part of Water street to Marry street. In each case does not the change sound better and why should we continue to hang to Christian Shore?

Can anybody explain why this name and why it was adopted?

Helen Gould to Give a New Building at Newport

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—There has been a report current here for several days that Miss Helen Gould is to be the donor of a new building here to be used as the home for the Newport branch of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. Verification of this report has thus far been impossible, for all those connected with the association have quite evidently been pledged to secrecy.

A new home for the association has been needed a long time and a possible site for a new building has practically been selected on Thames street.

MUSIC HALL

Mr. LaDue now at Music Hall, is giving the finest exhibitions of fancy rope spinning ever seen in this city. He has for Friday and Saturday, in addition to his regular performance, an act as novel as it is interesting. In full view of the audience, he completely ties a small boy, hand and foot, without once touching the knots or the boy, with his hands. He ends his performance by some very fancy spinning of a heavy rope, 60 feet in length, keeping the entire length of the rope in the air continuously, and making a complete circle, taking up the entire stage.

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, Aug. 13.—A fire attended with spectacular features occurred at 11 o'clock on Thursday night, when a four tenement block on Augh street owned by John Grimes, was partially destroyed. During the progress of the fire, Godfrey Cody and his son were forced to jump from a second story window, leaving behind them a trunk containing $4000, the savings of a lifetime. The trunk was afterwards rescued by the firemen. Two children and a woman were overcome by smoke but were rescued by neighbors. Francis Farley and his feet badly cut by broken glass while assisting in the work of rescue. The building was occupied by Mrs. Phil. J. Crossan, Mrs. Nellie Fitzgerald, James Gillette and Godfrey Cody, who suffered the loss of most of their household furnishings. The fire started from the explosion of a lamp in the tenement occupied by Mrs. Fitzgerald. The loss on the building will be in the vicinity of $2000. The amount of insurance is unknown.

The body of Mary A., widow of William T. Hall, were brought here on Thursday from Rochester, where death occurred. Mrs. Hall was 72 years old. Besides a son, Henry A. Hall of this city, she is survived by a daughter, Miss Nellie Hall of Rochester. Burial was in Pine Hill in charge of Undertakers Glidden and Glidden and committal services were read at the grave by the Rev. Walter S. Bazanson of the Advent Christian church.

A letter has been received from Dr. John R. Ham of Malabar, Fla., formerly a leading physician here, announcing the death Sunday of his wife. Mrs. Ham was a native of Tufnorborough. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Miss Emily H. Ham and Mrs. Walter H. Foster of this city. The body will be brought here for burial.

The annual city government outing at Dover Point on Wednesday will not be soon forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to be present.

The P. A. C. and the Catholic Union are to be the attraction at the North play ground tomorrow.

Our Customers Are Fashion's Friends

We are offering about thirty dozens of "full negligee" shirts at the ridiculously low price of 69c per shirt.

We "closed them out" from a shirt jobber, making an offer for them which we little thought would be accepted, and here they are for you while they last, at the above price—sixty-nine cents each. This lot consists chiefly of "Yvella," or French flannel—an all wool, non-shrinking garment usually retailed at two dollars ($2.00) each. Samples are shown in one of our display windows.

YACHTS ALL SAFE AFTER A TOUGH EXPERIENCE

Fleet of New York Club Gathered at Portland and Will Continue the Cruise to Bar Harbor.

Portland, Me., Aug. 13.—With the arrival here at 11 a. m. of the sloop Winsome and the schooner Sea Fox and dispatches from a half dozen New England harbors, every yacht of the New York yacht club fleet, which sailed from Vineyard Haven on Tuesday forenoon and which met a fierce gale off Cape Cod that night, was accounted for, and the reunited fleet will resume the cruise tomorrow, with a run to Rockland.

In the canvass of the different harbors between Vineyard Haven and Portland at noon by the officers of the fleet and the press, no trace was found of the Winsome or the Sea Fox, the former owned by Henry F. Lippitt of Providence and the latter by Dallas P. Pratt of New York; and for some hours today there was considerable anxiety regarding their safety.

It was a great relief, therefore, when the Winsome came in under tow and the Sea Fox appeared under her own sail. The Winsome put into Gloucester during the gale, and left there Wednesday afternoon. It was also announced that the schooner Minnie was in Nantucket.

It was also stated that all the yachts with few exceptions, in other harbors had sailed for this port. At noon sloop Istalena and the schooner Ariel arrived and reported that other yachts were following.

Commodore James was so gratified and relieved that he issued invitations for a reception and celebration on the flag ship.

Then the thrilling incidents of the big storm will be recounted and plans for the continuing of the cruise discussed.

As was expected the fleet has made an early start today for Thursday by the regatta committee, the has been empowered to set the finish line at the entrance of Penobscot bay, in case the winds prove light.

Five prize winners were announced at noon by the regatta committee, whose steam yacht, Diana, remained at the finish line all night. It developed that the Vigilant was towed only from Peaks Island to the upper harbor, having completed the run and won the special class.

The Taormina won the class in the prize for schooners and the commodore's cup for small schooners, finishing at 4.30 a. m. The Minnie won class B and the commodore's cup for large schooners. The Sea Fox won the special schooner class and the Aurora won class K and the commodore's cup for large sloops.

"It was the stiffest experience in the history of the club, but it showed the stuff our yachtsmen are made of," said Commodore James of the New York yacht club this morning. He said that the detained yachts might come here or might go directly to Rockland and Bar Harbor.

Commodore James said the showing made by the Aurora was, under the circumstances, something wonderful. She kept practically under full sail nearly all of the time.

The sturdy New York yachtsmen, not a bit discouraged by the experience they passed through began this morning one of their special events the races for the Owl and Game Cock colors, for two classes, gigs and motor boats.

Capt. Smith of the Vigilant reported that they had a very hard time. Soon after the storm struck them Tuesday night the iron bolt holding the peak balyard broke to the masthead broke, the gaff came down with a run, bringing with it the mainsail. The storm was at the time at the wildest. Later the jib split while they were between Thatcher's island and Portsmouth. The sea was very high and the waves struck the yacht blow after blow. It gave the yacht a hard trial, but she passed through it successfully.

While the Sea Fox came in under her own sails a winner in her class, the Winsome was towed in, and had a very hard fight during the storm. Mr. Lippitt, the owner, said that the gale struck the sloop with great force Tuesday night at a time when they were on the off shore tack.

The other boats in her class were also off shore, but they lost sight of them before the storm set in, and in the thick darkness of the storm and the pouring rain nothing could be made out. They kept on under all possible sail, hoping that the wind would moderate, but at 1 o'clock on Wednesday morning the storm suddenly increased, the wind gained in force, and they took in the mainsail and were running under head sails only.

At the time the crew was in the cockpit and had to stay there. There was nothing on the deck to give a hand grasp, and to have attempted to have gone forward would have meant instant death. In that sea and in the face of that wind a man would have at once gone overboard.

Soon after a great wave swept them and the forward hatch was washed off. The next wave broke over them the sea rushed into the fore-cabin galley and main cabin and did considerable damage. About 4 o'clock they were able to tack and to head for Gloucester.

It was the hardest storm Mr. Lippitt ever passed through, he said, and it tested alike his yacht and his seamanship. Like the other yachtsmen he had practically no notice of the coming up of the storm and it came on with great force, practically all at once.

Old Home Week in
This Vicinity

Exeter, Aug. 13.—Next week will mark the first of the Old Home celebrations in this section of the state. This town, however, will not attempt any observance of the custom this year. The first occasion of the kind this year will be Hedding's second annual celebration, which is set for Aug. 19. The day will be a gala one for that report, and an especially interesting programme has been arranged which will consist of literary exercises and athletic sports, terminating with a baseball game. The speaker of the day will be Governor Quibby. One of the other speakers will be Judge Henry A. Shute of this town. The next celebration will be at Stratham Aug. 23, where a programme of interest will also be carried out. A basket picnic will be held at noon, and the afternoon will be devoted to literary exercises and athletic sports.

The schooner Florence A., which arrived on Wednesday with a cargo of coal for H. W. Anderson, sailed today for Liverpool, N. S., to load with lumber for Danvers, Mass., from the Sable Lumber company.

Fred Barnea, captain of the E. A. A. baseball team, is this week passing a vacation in Boston.

Mr. Ralph E. Meras has returned from Dover, Me., where he was called about three weeks ago by the critical illness of his father, Fernando Meras. He was a constant attendant on his father, who failed gradually till the end came about a week after he arrived. Mr. Meras had lived alone, from preference, for many years until the past year, when two, of his four daughters had been with him. Mr. Meras was a native of Spain, but had lived in Dover for 50 years. By thrift and economy in early manhood he had acquired a competency, and had lived a retired life for the past 25 years on a beautifully situated farm, just out of Dover village. Realizing his condition about six weeks ago, he made a deed of his property in trust to his son, that his children might get the greatest benefit from it. Mr. Meras was a member and officer of the Free Will Baptist church for many years and was affiliated with local and Maine state philanthropic and reform associations. The work of repainting the First church is progressing well. The color is a slightly lighter shade of the old, and will be somewhat modified in the second coat, which J. I. Watson and Son are about to administer. The selectmen will also have the four faces of the town clock repainted, and the hands and figures regilded.

Miss Dora H. Walker writes of trying experiences in the recent earthquake at Mexico, Mex., the more so from the fact that the arrival of guests at her brother's home had compelled her to seek quarters in a strange house. She was awakened after dreams inspired by the shock and the reality was hardly less terrifying. In leaving the house she found the stairs had a waving motion like that of a huge serpent.

The water supply is nearing a stage to occasion anxiety. The company requests its patrons to guard against waste and not to abuse the hose privilege.

With her daughter, Mrs. Lulu Park, Mrs. L. A. Stanley, of Boston, will on Saturday arrive at the home of her brother, Dr. James E. S. Pray, for a week's visit.

Accompanied by his mother, Mr. Joseph S. Ford starts today on a fortnight's trip to Montreal and Quebec, with return by way of the White mountains.

Hon. James O. Lyford, of Concord, has been here this week busied in researches at the Rockingham registers for a history of Canterbury he is compiling.

The Baptists and Methodists will unite in next Sunday's service which will be held at the Methodist church.

HAMPTON

A portrait of Rev. John Wheelwright, who was pastor of the Congregational church here from 1647 to 1656, has been placed in the chapel besides other former pastors. Correspondence with the descendants of Rev. Stephen Bachiler in England has been in progress, with the hope of securing his portrait. He was the first pastor in town, preaching from 1633 to 1641.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lane, of Salem, Mass., spent Sunday in town with relatives, attending services at the Methodist church.

Our respected citizen, Christopher J. Toppan, is this week walking to the postoffice and back, the first time in eight weeks.

The Monday club took an outing on Tuesday, going to Ipswich by steam, then taking the trolley to Gloucester and Pigeon Cove, coming home by way of Rockport, Annisquam, and arriving in Gloucester in time for dinner. Boarding the trolley at about 1:30 p. m. they went to Salem, where they changed cars and took another line for Salem Willows. After visiting the various attractions in that charming summer resort they boarded a naptha launch, which took the party to Marblehead, a distance of 4 1/2 miles. Again taking the electric, a half hour's ride landed them at Salem Square, where was begun the homeward journey by trolley. The day was all that one could desire and the trip one of the most delightful imaginable. Mrs. Frank Marston was the guest of the club on this excursion.

The Congregational Sunday school picnic will in all probability be held next Wednesday in Toppan's grove. Further announcement will be made on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seavey, of Gloucester, are this week guests of Miss Ida Lane.

It is reported that at last our vacant shoe shop has been sold to parties in Lynn and that it will be occupied at once.

The residents on the depot road are greatly enjoying the benefit of having the street oiled. Owing to the large number of passing automobiles, the dust was exceedingly unpleasant, so the experiment of oiling the road is being tried.

The lawn party on Wednesday afternoon by the Children's Whatsoever Mission Circle was very successful financially. The day was ideal and the attendance much larger than was anticipated. The young ladies disposed of everything they had on sale, the sum taken being $22.

Samuel Poor and John A. Philbrick spent Wednesday night seeking at Marblehead and Swampscott, Mass., dining with Mr. Philbrick's brother and wife.

MUSTER IN SOMERSWORTH

Will be Held Sept. 16 and Plans Being Made for a Big Gathering of the Veterans

The Somersworth Veteran Firemen Association are making active preparations for a veterans' muster and play-out in that city Sept. 16. $600 will be hung up in prizes and these will be divided as follows: First $200, second $150, third $100, fourth $75, fifth $50 and sixth $25.

The two local companies will undoubtedly enter and both ought to get in the prize money. The Eureka especially, should go after that first prize.

The following judges have already been selected: A. Cheney of Haverhill, Mass.; S. E. Reed of Newburyport, Mass.; A. E. Guarnsey of Sanford, Me.; W. H. Small of Newmarket; Charles E. Lord of Salmon Falls; James L. Stone of Berwick; George L. Aldrich of Somersworth. There are two others who have been written to act, but as yet no reply has been received.

INTERESTING MEETING AT NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

The New Hampshire college and agricultural experiment station was Thursday the scene of an interesting meeting of those interested in the college and experiment station, who came from all parts of southern New Hampshire to visit the institution. Special excursion trains were run from many distant points.

The principal speaker provided for the day was George T. Powell of Ghent, N. Y., president of the Agricultural Experts' association of New York and one of that state's leading practical farmers and fruit growers.

During the day the summer meeting of the New Hampshire state horticultural society was held, and was addressed by a number of the prominent agriculturists of the state.

RED CROSS WORK ON TUBERCULOSIS

The New Hampshire branch of the National Red Cross is sending out copies of their bulletin No. 2, which is a reprint of Dr. Elwood Worcester's article in the Ladies' Home Journal for March, on the "Class Method of Treating Tuberculosis." This bulletin is of great value to the hands of those afflicted with the disease in our towns and cities that they may get together and understand how they can help themselves. One of the greatest obstacles to fighting the disease successfully is the fact that the people who have it, fail to submit themselves to an examination in the incipient stages and it is at this time only that it can be really cured.

They are also sending out an article, as bulletin No. 3, on the "Protection of Health from Tuberculosis."

CAN'T CONTRADICT THIS

No Matter What Sceptics Say We Have Proved That Mi-o-na Will Cure Dyspepsia

"I gratefully acknowledge what Mi-o-na has done for me. I have taken 2 boxes and can say I have been cured of stomach trouble which no one on earth had it any worse than me. I have increased in weight. My weight is 129 lbs., the most I have weighed in 14 years. I think that everyone who is troubled with their stomach should try this wonderful medicine."—Yours truly, Mrs. Emma Schultz, Akron, O.

There are any number of thin and scrawny people in this world who are in that condition simply because the stomach is out of order and does not extract the nutritious matter from the food to supply flesh to the bones.

If these people would take Mi-o-na tablets with or after meals for a month they would take on good solid flesh just the same as Mrs. Schultz did.

Mi-o-na tablets are known the country over as the surest cure for indigestion, belching of gas, sour stomach, coated tongue, sick headache, heartburn and catarrh of the stomach. Leading druggists everywhere sell Mi-o-na. Goodwin E. Philbrick sells them in Portsmouth for 50 cents and guarantees them to cure or money back.

HYOMEI

(Pronounced High-O-Me)
Cures catarrh or money back. Just breathe it in. Complete outfit, including inhaler, $1. Extra bottles 50c. Druggists.

The question that is being asked by the seafaring men of this section is where is the Isles of Shoals life saving station. It was ordered by congress two years ago, the site selected at least a year ago and still nothing has been done about the station. If the members of the life saving crews took as much time to get to a ship in trouble as the department does about locating stations after ordered by congress, it would be a horrible condition. If the station had been in operation as it should be by this time, the crew might have been able to render some assistance to the disabled yachts of the New York Yacht club, or the Nezinecot. At any rate, it seems as though enough red tape had been gone through to start the work on the station.

Copies of these bulletins have been distributed to all Orange secretaries in the state and will shortly be sent to the churches. Anyone desiring a copy of either bulletin is earnestly requested to simply write to the New Hampshire branch of the National Red Cross, Monmouth, N. H., as there is no charge for them.

THE BILLARD INCORPORATION

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 13.—The resolution incorporating the Billard company to hold the shares of Boston and Maine railroad shares, now in the hands of John L. Billard of Meriden, Conn., which has been at the foot of the calendar for weeks, was called up in the senate on Wednesday and passed without comment. As adopted, the resolution carries the amendments appended by the house of representatives.

GREAT INTEREST BEING TAKEN

The local baseball fans are taking a great interest in the Boston Americans and are hoping that they will win the pennant. Every evening about the time the scores are posted a gang of fans gather and figure out the chances of the team etc. They are following the results pretty close. Yesterday both Boston, Detroit and Philadelphia won their games, which leaves the standing of all three teams the same.

BRIDGE AGAIN OPEN

The famous old troublesome York bridge is again open. It will be remembered that it was closed, as the private subscription to maintain the draw was not sufficient, but when the people on the east side had to go the long way around they came to the rescue and enough money has been subscribed to keep the bridge open.

A RETURN MATCH TODAY

There will be a return match of the members of the Abenaki Golf club of Rye Beach and the Portsmouth Country club at the local course this afternoon. At least fifteen men on a side is expected and the local club expects to make a better showing than last Monday. The teams play at a little after two o'clock.

CHARLEY TAFT'S BOAT

His Presidential Father Puts Restrictions on Its Use

Beverly, Aug. 13.—Charley Taft, the younger son of President Taft, who by this time is widely known as a lover of the water, is disappointed over the way in which the president has sized up his ability for managing his craft, the Bandit.

As the result Charles is spending all of his time on land at present instead of the briny deep, sailing the Bandit and relieving the ocean of its fish.

Charley's alleged inability to manage his little craft, it is said, came to the attention of the president last Sunday, when Charley was up bright and early, stopping just long enough to eat his breakfast before he boarded his boat.

He had not been out very long before his troubles commenced. He was out some distance on the water when he became becalmed and not being able to find anybody to tow him in his craft to await the pleasure of the wind.

Not returning in time for lunch an investigation was made and the Bandit was brought to shore by the men on the President's yacht, the Sylph.

When Charley arrived, at the summer White House it is said that he was told not to go out in his sailing boat again unless he had some one with him who knew how to manage it.

As Capt. Roger Williams of the Sylph and the crew have been busy, Charley has been unable for the past few days to get anybody to manage his craft and he has been obliged to engage in land sports.

At present he is down at the summer home of John Hays Hammond as the guest of Dick Hammond, who presented him the sailing craft some weeks ago.

Until Charley finds a pilot he will not be noticed on the North Shore waters, according to the orders of the president.

WOULD HAVE BEEN OF SOME POSSIBLE USE

The question that is being asked by the seafaring men of this section is where is the Isles of Shoals life saving station. It was ordered by congress two years ago, the site selected at least a year ago and still nothing has been done about the station. If the members of the life saving crews took as much time to get to a ship in trouble as the department does about locating stations after ordered by congress, it would be a horrible condition. If the station had been in operation as it should be by this time, the crew might have been able to render some assistance to the disabled yachts of the New York Yacht club, or the Nezinecot. At any rate, it seems as though enough red tape had been gone through to start the work on the station.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF OF THE YORK HOSPITAL

Dandruff, Now Curable

New Method of Treating That Common Disease and Other Hair Troubles

Men, women and children do not wash their hair and heads often enough. There has been a mistaken idea for years that frequent washing is bad for the hair. The result is that nearly everybody has more or less trouble. Practically everybody has dandruff, and hundreds of others have hair that is too oily, or too dry or hair that is faded and lifeless.

The result of all these troubles is falling hair, and after that comes baldness. There are hundreds of humbugs sold in the drug stores under various names that are said to make beautiful hair, and that are said to cure dandruff, but you know by experience that they have done you little or no good, even if they have done you no harm. You also know that common soaps and common shampoos leave your hair in a worse condition after you use them than it was before. It is really strange how people put things on their heads when they don't know what they are made of. There is one preparation for the hair, however, that is so good that the ingredients of which it is made are printed on the package. This is the new scientific preparation called Birt's Head Wash, which is made of Refined Soap, Cocoon Cocoon Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and an antiseptic. You ought to be willing to try this new article, because when you use it you know exactly what you are putting on your head. Any doctor will tell you it is a good formula, and no doctor will tell you it can do any harm.

Birt's Head Wash does not simply take off the dirt, dandruff and microbes from the hair, but it leaves the scalp soft and moist and the hair fine and glossy. You can see an improvement in the condition of your hair the first time you use it, and your dandruff will disappear in a very short time. You will be astonished how many impurities will be found on your hair and head, because nothing takes them off like Birt's Head Wash. If you will wash your head at least once a week with this preparation, your hair will take on new life, simply because your scalp will be put in a clean, natural condition, so that your hair will have a chance to grow as it should. Price 50c a jar.

MILITIA CALLED TO FIGHT FIRE

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 13.—The most disastrous forest fire in the history of Biddeford raged in the Newcomb district in the lower end of the city on Thursday, burning over about 600 acres of pine timber land, threatening to destroy nineteen houses along the Pool road and doing damage estimated at upward of $100,000.

The fire is still burning fiercely in the woods along the Pool road, some five miles from this city, but unless the wind changes it is not believed any houses will be destroyed.

The residents of the farmhouses adjacent to the fire zone did not sleep last night, but watched their buildings to see that they were not set on fire by the sparks that filled the air.

The fire, which has been raging with more or less fierceness since Tuesday, broke out anew in the pasture of Joseph Haley and during Thursday forenoon assistance was asked of the fire department in this city.

Chief Engineer E. J. Sullivan sent down a squad of men and they rendered valuable assistance in saving property.

In the afternoon Mayor Cornell Horigan received a telephone message from the Jordan farm, on the Pool road, that the fire was spreading rapidly, endangering property nearby. The Jordan farm, which is the country home of Mrs. Harry J. Tatterson of this city, is one of the finest along the coast.

The mayor sent the street crew to the scene and ordered the riot called off. The fire alarm system also blows, calling the members of Company G, First regiment, National Guard, State of Maine, together.

The men, who had returned from muster, quickly assembled at the armory and in command of Capt. D. Holt were conveyed to the fire in buckboards.

They rendered valuable assistance in saving property in that section.

The strip of timber land burned over was a mile wide and about 1 1/4 miles in length. The fire extended from the Newtown road to the Fortunes rock on the Pool road and south into the woods one mile.

The fire is thought to have been set by blueberry pickers.

Rain is the only hope of extinguishing it.

BY THE STRATEGY OF SEIZER

A Romance That Began With the Stealing of a Shoe.

By LOUISE JACKSON STONE.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Mr. Henry Brownlow understood thoroughly why the Widow Smithfield had taken the house next his and ignored her existence with frigid dignity. He kept that side of his dwelling closed and abandoned his favorite seat under the catalpa, smoking his evening pipe behind the eucalyptus.

Nevertheless his unwelcome neighbor intruded on him continually, for the woman had a child and a cat, and what with her own eternal singing, the chatter of the child and the prowling of the cat the quiet and peace of his life were destroyed.

And his dog Selzer was being spoiled, his disposition rasper by unending conflicts with the cat. He would scarcely settle himself, panting from a rush after her, when she would be back, calmly pronouncing their walk or sniffing insolently at their kitchen screen.

"Some day you'll catch and throttle her, old fellow," Mr. Brownlow encouraged. "But keep on your own premises. Mind that."

And Selzer promptly halted at the boundary fence until one day his ardent carried him through the broken paling in the wake of the streak of fur and up to the steps where the child sat laughing at the race. And that was his undoing, for the child put his head, put her little arms about his neck and loved him, and the woman rubbed his silky ears kindly and asked him to come often.

And when he returned to his lonely home he left half his heart behind and could not look his master in the eyes that night.

Thereafter the cat prowled unmolested, and Selzer often slipped through the paling for a surreptitious visit.

She snatched the shoe, rushed to the division fence and hurled it with all her strength into the face of Mr. Brownlow, who that instant hobbled around the house in search of Selzer, having missed his shoe. He dodged to the side with a cry and staggered to a seat, the blood streaming from his nose.

In two seconds horrified Mrs. Smithfield was bending over him with a wet towel and fearful, incoherent apologies, which mingled with his spluttering reassurances in confused dunt until, suddenly looking into each other's eyes, they were stricken dumb by a mutual discovery.

A little later they sat together upon his favorite seat under the catalpa, his arm around her, the child upon his knee, the cat caressing his legs and Selzer flying madly around them, shrilling his rapture to the heavens.

A Conjugal Duel.

Charles Courteau, flour d'assouci, a French poet and musician of the seventeenth century, relates in one of his "Adventures" that his father and mother were one day engaged in a discussion upon questions of law when a dispute arose between them with regard to the precise signification and bearing of a provision in Justinian's code with respect to the rights of brothers. Ultimately the quarrel waxed so serious that the disputants lost all control of themselves, duffed each other to single combat and proceeded to settle their difference and determine the mind of the ancient legislator by a fight with swords.

This singular duel took place in their son's presence. Courteau pere was an advocate by profession and a member of one of the French parliaments. Madame was exceedingly diminutive and had to wear exceptionally high pattens to approach the ordinary stature of women, but she was fierce and domineering in temper. The combat appears to have been a drawn battle, and the sense of Justinian remained as obscure and debatable as ever.

A Batch of Anecdotes.

Some interesting anecdotes and gossip, new and old, of the law courts are given in the English Illustrated Magazine. The writer of the article was once present in court when a juror, who opened the bill by saying, "This case, my lord, really lies in a nutshell," received the reply, "You crack it, then."

There have been times when clever witnesses have got the better of counsel in a skirmish of words. When the farmer was asked where he got his knowledge of the mare's age from he said, "From the mare's own mouth, sir."

Irish lawyers are generally endowed by Dame Nature with quick wit. Among them all perhaps Curran held the palm for lightness and vivacity. When some one told him that no student should be called to the bar who did not possess a landed estate of his own, he retorted, "How many acres make a viscount?"

But it was a Scotman, appropriately enough Lord Brougham, who, seeing his horses take fright, yelled to the coachman, "Drive into something cheap!"

Patience Selzer brought it back, looking eagerly down the walk. She would be here presently for her property. They would meet.

"Take it back instantly!" Brownlow ordered. But Selzer stood his ground, his ears cocked for her coming.

Grandmother Matthews voiced his option that correct language is that language currently used. If that right, a certain teacher in a Manhattan school was wrong when she indignantly vented her dislike of slang.
But the wrong was more her own
than the scholars she reproved. During playtime she had listened to the conversation of a number of the boys and noticed a predominance in their speech of American as it is spoken.
Forthwith she assembled the offenders.

"Boys," she announced, "I wish you would use better language. I find you much addicted to using slang. Remember that we attend school to learn proper words to use. Slang is detestable. Hereafter you will have to cut it out!"

And for a time she wondered why
the boys laughed.—New York Press.

South Sea Swells.
Readers of old narratives of exploration in the south seas will recall the frequent references to the heavy swells of the ocean, which impressed the navigators with the idea of their remoteness from land. Dr. Vaughan Cornish explains the great size of the sea waves in high southern latitudes
by the fact that south of the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn there is neither windward nor leeward shore and the prevailing wind in all longitudes is westerly. Thus when a westwind springs up it finds a long westerly swell, the effect of a previous wind still running. The newborn wind increases the steepness of this swell and so forms majestic storm waves, which sometimes attain a length of 1,200 feet from crest to crest. The average height attained by sea waves in feet
is about half the velocity of the wind
in miles per hour.

Paid His Debt.
When Joe Chamberlain entered the house of commons he was anxious to try his oratorical powers. A certain leading politician who was piloting
a bill through the house was approached by one of Mr. Chamberlain's friends, who said:

"Chamberlain would like to speak on the bill. Can you give him a chance?"
"Well, you know, I think it would not do. He's a new member, and nobody knows what the dickens he might say."

Time went on. Chamberlain gained ground—became a power in parliament. The leading politician, on the contrary, had made a series of blunders which had imperiled his position.
An election was imminent. Forgetting his previous record, he thought that if he could get Mr. Chamberlain to speak for him he would strengthen his position. He therefore applied to the right honorable gentleman. The latter calmly surveyed him through his eyeglasses
and said:

"Well, you know, I think it would not do. I am a new member, and nobody knows what the dickens I might say."

The big hit, Miss Mae Nash, now at Music Hall.

DIVIDED WAYS.

What a Chance Meeting After Many Years Revealed.

By SUSAN H. MORLEY.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"There's not another such stretch on the whole sound," Lisa was saying gayly. "For miles it's this same way—so level that at low tide we could, if we chose, pass dry shod, like the children of Israel, to the other side, which means to you island. In fact, it's our favorite!"

A whirling black cloud, startling the horses, rose suddenly from the edge of the water as they turned a sharp point, and Seth Eckles, who was no horseman, had all he could do to keep his seat.

"Stormy petrels," laughed Lisa. "The beach takes its name from them, they bathe in such numbers, you know.
If you could stay another month, Seth, we'd make a rider of you. It's a better sport any time, I warrant, than those new gossamer games you talk so much about."

Eckles, who was comfortably settled in his saddle again, listened to the pounding of the hoofs on the hard, wet

"DO YOU KNOW YOU HAVEN'T SPOKEN FOR THIS LONGEST WHILE?"

sand, his eyes on Lisa, whose small gray form seemed to blend and become a part of the little gray she was riding.

He admired her immensely, this stepdaughter of his aunt, and suddenly it seemed to him that mortal man could ask for nothing better than Lisa for a wife, and life in this out of the way
place with its aristocratic and exclusive, self satisfied old town.

And Lisa was pretty. Not a girl he had ever known could compare with her in beauty, not to mention a certain grace of manner and an unusual dainty wit.

She had money and lineage, too,
back of her, and Seth Eckles was old enough and wise enough to know the value of such things.

"If silence is golden," she interrupted quizzically, "then your burden must indeed be heavy. Do you know you haven't spoken for the longest while?"

"I was thinking," he stammered guiltily, ashamed that anything so sordid as family and money could for an instant have associated themselves in his mind with the girl herself. It was Lisa that he wanted.

"How late!" Lisa exclaimed with the boom of the sunset gun on the old fort across the channel. "If you but knew it, Seth, we're five miles from home. Then there's dinner and dressing, and I can't under any circumstances allow a guest to disgrace himself by arriving tardily at a function in his honor. We've got to run for it."

She wheeled and led off, Seth following and keeping up as best he could, but undaunted by the distance between them. Was there not the dance at the clubhouse yet before his train at midnight? At any rate, it was a chance.

And Seth rode the best of it. The long galleries were bowers of palms and remote from the ballroom, and there, with the tide pummeling at the pier and tossing up sheets of spray,
Seth told his story.

He was young and handsome and adept, and he pleaded his case well—
so well that he and Lisa in the white radiance of a big moon and with the shimmer of water about them exchanged vows, convinced that each was intended for the other. What was the way life looked that night, but of course, it would be the same a year hence when Lisa should be eighteen and the engagement made public.

Then Seth, fresh from a law school,
established himself in New York.
There was no time, no money, no waiting for clients. From the very first luck held his hand, and business troubles, growing like hyacinths at the doors of even older men, from him stood aloof.

Besides, he had full measure of amusements and pleasure. Friends he made everywhere. His hearty laugh and genial disposition kept him in demand.

Life was so satisfactory and success
so easy that he was already well spoilt before he met Laura Norton, who was Lisa's exact opposite. Before he knew it he had forgotten his pledge to

Lisa and was formally engaged to Laura, the engagement being speedily followed by marriage.

For a while there were hours of gloria when he stood truly agog at what he had done. In every conceivable light and with all honesty he argued the matter, convincing himself
finally that he had nothing to regret.
Lisa was young and susceptible. Probably she was already consoling.

In any case a man's mature judgment was to be respected, no matter at what cost. And, too, he greatly admired his wife, her easy adaptability,
her cleverness, her accomplishments.
Besides, they were congenial. Her ambitions fully equaled his, and her pursuit for politics was a factor in his career, pushing him into places he knew he could not have reached alone.

For a time honors seemed absolutely heaped upon him. He could scarcely keep step with fortune's pace, so fast and furiously did she mount. But, once started on the ladder, he continued to climb, even long after his wife's death and when his hair had grayed and Lisa was but a misty dream. And luck still held his hand.

He was in the running for governor,
making the press said, a phenomenal campaign. Men spoke of him as the brilliant light, the strong man of his time. Everywhere he was made much of, and it was at a reception for him in the old clubhouse at the end of the pier that a sleeping memory awoke.

Could it be possible that he was awake? Only an hour ago it might have been that he had seen the cool
green of the ballroom, the long lawers of palms with lights twinkling among the black green foliage, the surf beating at the pier and the white foam dashing high. There was music, too,
just as on that other night, but Lisa, shimmering in pale green, with the string of pearls close to her white throat and nestling in her yellow hair
—Lisa—

"I claim the privilege of an old friend," a musical voice spoke close to his ear as he leaned on the railing,
and some one touched his arm.

It was Lisa. He knew it before he turned to see her in pale, shimmering green, with pearls at her throat and in the same fair hair. She smiled at him, too, in the old way, with little dimples about her mouth and her sensitive lips moving ever so slightly, though her face was in repose.

How pretty she was! Incomparably prettier than that other night and with a sweet, womanly dignity which pazled him. What had come to her to so beautify herself, to so intensely love herself?

He forgot the years and deeds that lay between that far-off night and this like leaves between the covers of a book, remembering only as it were the prize that once she had loved him that he still loved her, the crown of any man's life.

"Lisa!" he cried, his face aglow, his hands extended. "Lisa!"
"Dreaming," she laughed. Then the little hand pulled at his sleeve as the other reached toward two men in the shadows. One of them was strong and fine and one was young and handsome.
"I want you, Seth," she said, "to know
my son and my husband."

Not Entirely Undisputed.

The case before the court was one involving the ownership of a tract of land, and the attorney for one of the parties to the suit was cross exam-ing a witness. "Now, Mr. Grimschaw," he said, "the property on which you live was originally a part of the twenty acres in dispute, was it not?"

"Yes, sir."

"And your title is based on the original title to that land, I presume?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you resided there?"

"Over twenty-one years."

"Have you had now, mark me, have you had twenty-one years' undisturbed possession of that property?"

"The witness hesitated a moment."

"Remember, Mr. Grimschaw," said the lawyer, making his voice, "that you are under oath. Have you had twenty-one years' undisputed possession of that property?"

"It has been disputed once, and only once," answered the witness. "I found a nest of bluebirds in my back yard
one day last summer."

In the general laugh that followed this answer the lawyer subsided.
Youth's Companion.

Franks of Figures.
Some person of a mathematical turn of mind has discovered that the multiplication of 987654321 (which, you will observe, are simply the figures 1 to 9, inclusive, reversed) by 45 gives 4444444445. Reversing the order of the digits and multiplying 123456789
by 45 we get a result equally curious—5555555555. If we take 12345-6789 as the multiplicand and, interchanging the figures in 45 so as to make them read 54, use the last number as a multiplier the result will be 6666666666. Returning to the multi-plicand 987654321 and taking 54 as the multiplier again, the result will be 53-333333334. All three except the first and last figures, which together read 54,
the multiplier. Taking the same multiplicand and 27, the half of 54, as the multiplier, the product is 26,666,666-667, all 9's except the first and last figures, which together read 27, the multiplier. Now interchanging the order of the figures 27 and using 72 instead as a multiplier and 987654321 as the multiplicand we get as a product 7111111112, all ones except the first
and last figures, which together read 72, the multiplier.

An Inflection.
"Your tickets were complimentary, were they not?"

"Well," replied the man who had seen a painfully amateur entertainment, "I thought they were until I saw the show"—London Tit-Bits.

A Sensitive Soul.

A poor foreign musician was doggedly wrestling with his trombone outside an English village
inn. He knew that
"The Lost Chord"
was somewhere in
that instrument,
but the latter
seemed loath to part with it. At length the landlord
appeared at the door. The poor musician bowed

and, dodging his cup, said, "Music
hath charms," and smiled.

"Well, not always," he said, "you may say that."
"But try that tune
again, and I'll give you sixpence."

Three minutes later the trombonist was back again, and beatified and forlorn.
"You are right," he said slowly and sadly. "Music hath charms not always —no. A mad fellow out of our house came, and me and a brig he knocked down—yes. He didn't like that tune, no, no!" And he rubbed the back of his head.

"I thought he wouldn't," said the landlord. "He's just done a month's hard labor for stealing a clothed from a back garden."

Ambition.
"The narrow vale is not for me!"
cried one flame with youth's fierce desires.

"I'll climb a mountain peak and see

Particular About the Plates.
A Washingtonian who has lived at hotels and restaurants nearly all his life and who is notably absentminded, especially when absorbed in talking about a subject that interests him,
went out to dinner the other night.

He had plunged into a discussion before dinner and was continuing it uninterrupted throughout the oyster and soup courses. When the fish plates were placed on the table he followed the usual custom of the man who lives at hotels and wiped the plate off with his napkin. Instantly a butler reminded him and placed another.

Deep in his discussion, the guest wiped that one with his napkin, and the butler replaced that. This happened a third time, and then the hostess said: "Please do not do that any more. I assure you the plates are perfectly clean, and, besides, I have no more of that pattern."—Saturday Even-

AT NAVY YARD

Maine's Crew Will Celebrate

Marine Officers Go to Army Maneuvers

Sailor from the Maine Makes a Gallant Rescue

The Maine Boys to Celebrate

The crew of the U. S. S. Maine are planning to celebrate the occasion of the ship going out of commission in the form of an open air athletic meet and a banquet, dance and reception to their friends in this city. The canteen is said to contain some $2,000 or more and the men want to spend the money in entertaining their friends at this post.

Underneath the new railing this money, if not used before a ship goes out of commission, reverts to the government and the sailors lose. The jacks have a warm spot in their hearts for the people here who have shown them much kindness since Portsmouth was made the home ports of the Maine.

The Court in Session Today

The court of inquiry on the loss of the tug Nezinscot and four lives are holding another session today in which several officers of the yard were heard on the same.

The Lifeboat of the Nezinscot

The lifeboats of the tug Nezinscot, the only relic of the sad accident, is tied up near the floating stage and attracts more attention at present than anything the government owns at this station.

Will See How They Do It

Col. T. P. Kane, Captain J. S. Turritt, Captain William H. Parker, U. S. M. C., have been ordered to Boston where they will be connected with the headquarters of General Harries, U. S. A., to observe the work of the army during the maneuvers now in progress.

Hearing Today

Local attorneys and the police were called to the yard today on a case where a civilian employee is up for a hearing.

Will Pull Out the Smoke Pipe

The gunboat Marietta was moved to the quay wall near the dry dock today where her smoke stack will be removed by the traveling crane.

Packing Up a Little

The household effects of Rear Admiral E. K. Moore are being made ready for shipment when he concludes his duties at this station in September.

Bravery of a Sailor from the Maine

About one o'clock a sailor from the U. S. S. Maine, walking the wharf at Broughton's dock waiting for the launch to convey him to the ship, heard cries for help coming from the end of the wharf and quickly ran to the end of the pier where he found a marine from the same ship struggling in the water. The bluejacket lost no time and in a jiffy he was in, clothes and all, after his shipmate. The tide was high and not far from the cap of the wharf. The sailor swam with his man to the end of the wharf where he forced him to hold onto a piling while he climbed up on the woodwork and reaching over again got his strong arm on the marine, dragging him to the wharf and rendered all assistance possible until the arrival of James Boardman with his launch who took them in and hurried to the ship.

Both the sailor and marine refused to give their names but it must be stated that the jackie, whoever he was, certainly did a brave act in this daring rescue.

ENGINEER VISITING COAST

Portland, Me., Aug. 13.—Col. Geo. A. Zinn, chief of the United States engineers, left here yesterday on board the government steamer Norfolk for an inspection trip along the coast. The government is engaged in much valuable work along the coast, widening and deepening channels and other work of a similar nature. The work on the Kennebec and Penobscot rivers is being carried on daily and much has been accomplished. Col. Zinn will be gone about a week and during that time he will have an opportunity to thoroughly inspect everything that comes under his supervision.

Mr. C. Edward Tilton, who, since his return from the West coast has been in Hedding Camp grounds, is the guest of his brother in this city. Mrs. Tilton is the guest of her parents in Durham.

CITY BRIEFS

Good beef roasts, 10c lb at Smart's Saturday.

A cedar launch from one of the Eastern Yacht Club vessels has been picked up at the Shoals.

The New Hampshire Press Association will hold its annual outing here on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 28-29.

Tuesday will be a day of outings, for the Warwick club of this city and Bellamy of Dover will have their joint outing and the Elks have theirs the same date at York Beach.

The members of the New York Yacht club certainly got some idea of the real life of a sailor during the past few days. It was a rough experience, but one that will give them something to talk about for some time.

WILL COME SATURDAY NIGHT

The Russian priest, Rev. Fr. Gregorieff, who will preach and conduct Russian orthodox services at Christ church on Sunday, will arrive in the city on Saturday evening and a rehearsal of the music will be held at nine o'clock. The Christ church acolytes are expected to be present.

SUNDAY IN CONNECTICUT

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 13.—Gov. Weeks has vetoed the Sunday Observance bill passed by the General Assembly a few days ago, and which, it was asserted, permitted baseball and other sports on Sunday. An attempt to pass the bill over the veto will be made.

THE T. W. PRIEST

New Crew on Handtub Next Week at Lawrence

The Portsmouth Veteran Firemen's association at a recent meeting elected new officers to serve for one year. President, Samuel Hardy. Vice-President, Scott Somerville. Secretary-Treasurer to be elected at the next meeting.

The chief engineer, Charles D. Varrell, was elected foreman of the working crew, with Samuel Hardy first assistant and M. J. Lynch second assistant.

The association has taken on new life and, with the officials in charge, will soon be back in its old place among the leaders.

Practically a new crew has been formed for the work and the T. W. Priest is expected to give a good account of herself in Lawrence next week.

AUTOMOBILES IN COLLISION

Shortly after twelve o'clock today two automobiles, one a White steamer from Massachusetts and the other a Cadillac touring car, came together at the corner of Congress and Middle streets.

Both cars were moving at a fair clip of speed and it is questioned whether either driver blew his horn and whether one was not as much to blame as the other for the accident.

When they observed each other it was too late to check the speed and there was nothing to do but stand the crash. The steamer came out with little damage while one side of the Cadillac was stripped in good shape.

The occupants of both machines were tossed around considerably but escaped without injury.

POLICE COURT

Three cases were heard before Judge Simms today in police court.

A. Wobbery and E. Stern, charged with peddling without a license, were discharged, as was Charles Bennett, who was up for a drunk.
